Laura Miller is an associate in the New York office of Milbank LLP and a member of the firm's Alternative Investments Practice.

Primary Focus & Experience

Laura's practice focuses on derivatives, where she advises clients on regulatory matters before the Commodity Futures Trading Commission. Laura counsels futures commission merchants, derivatives clearing organizations and designated contract markets, among other market participants, on registration, ongoing compliance and regulatory implications of business initiatives and products.

Prior to joining Milbank, Laura was an associate at another major law firm where she handled a wide range of regulatory, complex commercial and enforcement matters. Her work included defending clients in civil and criminal litigation brought by agencies including the US Department of Justice, Securities and Exchange Commission, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and Commodity Futures Trading Commission. She was also a part of the team representing the unsecured creditors committee in a high-profile Chapter 11 bankruptcy, and later the post-confirmation litigating trust, resulting in an over $60 million settlement for creditors.

Laura has maintained an active pro bono practice representing clients in housing, immigration, education and criminal matters.

Recognition & Accomplishments

Laura earned her J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School. She also received an M.F.A. from Columbia University and a Master of Science in Public Policy and Management and B.F.A. from Carnegie Mellon.
